Dear Editor IJEBMR

Thank you for the email and the effort to change the format of References. I wonder if it is acceptable if the citations I used in the contents are using the numbers for example "..... Thus, according to previous study, in implementing CSR, the companies need policies either from government or back to the board of the companies [18]. " while in the references section there are no numbers to list the references (which is only names), or should I put the authors' name I cited as well in the article?

Thank you very much for your suggestions.

Best wishes,
Evi Thelia Sari
