ABSTRACT

Every company would want to have employees who have the ability and good work performance. Job description is a written summary that outlines the functions, duties, responsibilities, authority, working conditions, and certain other aspects of work. Work facilities are something that must be provided by the company for convenience and comfort for employees in carrying out their work. It is not enough just to have a clear job description with adequate work facilities, but a clear and directed promotion system is needed for its employees. Then employees will be motivated to always improve their abilities and work performance.

This study entitled The Effect of Job Description, Work Facilities and Promotion Systems Against the Ability of Employees and Job Performance of PT. Pos Indonesia Regional 7 East Java.

The research approach uses path analysis, with the results of the study as follows:

The analysis showed that partially the job description variable (X_1), work facilities (X_2), and promotion system (X_3) significantly influence the ability of employees (Y_1) because the value of $p < 0.05$, then H_a is accepted and H_0 is rejected.

The analysis shows that partially job description variables (X_1), work facilities (X_2), and promotion systems (X_3), significantly influence employee performance (Y_2) because the value of $p < 0.05$, then H_a is accepted and H_0 is rejected.

The analysis showed that partially the ability variable (Y_1) had a significant negative effect on employee performance (Y_2) because the value of $p > 0.05$, then H_a was accepted and H_0 was rejected.
